

Abstract

A tunable low noise amplifier matching circuit is provided. The matching circuit includes a ferro-electric tunable component. A control signal is applied 5 to the tunable component, changing the component's impedance. This changes the impedance or the noise figure response, or both, of the matching circuit.